

As we look toward the end of the academic year, I am writing to share that I will be moving on to a new chapter this fall. Serving as a teacher and advisor at The Girls' School of Austin for the past three years has been a profound joy, and I have truly come to view this staff, these families, and most of all these incredible young women as a second family. I am deeply grateful for the laughter, the "lightbulb" moments in the classroom, and the unwavering support of this community that has made my time here so meaningful.

While I look forward to new professional adventures, my heart remains focused on finishing this year with the same love and dedication I've held since my first day. Thank you for allowing me to be a part of your daughters' lives; I will carry the spirit of this school with me with immense gratitude.

—Kira Withrow